You'll see how these tasty treats get from the bottom of the ocean to your dinner plate and learn about lobster habits, conservation efforts and the difference between hard shells, shedders, shorts, culls, and keepers. Any lobsters we catch can be purchased after the cruise for wholesale "boat" price, and if you don't have a pot at home, take them across the pier to the Portland Lobster Company restaurant for the freshest lobster dinner anywhere.

A diverse variety of marine life will enter a lobster trap, and some common visitors include rock crabs, snails, starfish, and hermit crabs. Our see-thru "live tank" offers a chance to watch these little creatures until the end of the day when all are thrown back into the sea.

Other things we really hope you don't need but if you do...

Area Hospitals – something we hope you truly do not need, but if you do...

Bridgton Hospital

10 Hospital Drive
Bridgton, Maine 04009
207- 647-6000

NOT RECOMMENDED – we have to be honest. While it is close by, about 5 miles, most people's experiences, including my own has been very negative. If you can travel a bit, much better to go to North Conway's Memorial Hospital, which is associated with Maine Medical.
