

For Our Guests That Will Also Be Visiting Boston

I know many of you will be visiting Boston either on your way here or on your return. As a Boston native I would like to share some locations worth visiting. Boston is a truly great city during any season and Christmas is spectacular with Christmas light displays, concerts, theater and so much more.

New England Aquarium – this is the place to go if you are considering a Whale Watch Tour – absolute best in the area but books early, so never too early to put your reservations in. Beyond the Whale Watch Tours the aquarium is a can't miss for all the live displays of ocean life.

Boston's North End – If you like Italian food and pastries this is the place for you. I never miss a trip to the North End whether it is for a meal or to sneak a pastry or 2 at Mike's Bakery. I also introduced my neighbors in Maine to Mike's and now whenever they know I am going home they put in their orders! There is a very good reason for the long lines at Mike's. If you go you have to try the Lobster Tail pastry, rum cake, anything with ricotta cheese!

My favorite restaurant in the North End is Limoncello Ristorante for real Italian meal, but for pizza my favorite is Regina's. This is not to say all the others are not equally amazing but those are my 3 favorites.

You will also find the Old North Church in Boston's North End, which is where Paul Revere's revolutionary ride took place. No doubt you heard the "one if by land and two if by sea" – well this is where it happened so many years ago on April 8, 1775.

Boston's Freedom Trail – I grew up on so many field trips in school to the Freedom Trail that unfortunately I took it for granted but there is so much to see and learn by touring the Freedom Trail. Perfect for adults and children but so educational. See

Boston Common

Park Street Church

Granary Burying Ground – Mother Goose is buried here among many other famous people in our past history such as Samuel Adams, John Hancock, Robert Treat Paine, Paul Revere and more!

Paul Revere's House

Link for more info on Freedom Trail <https://www.thefreedomtrail.org/>

Old Ironsides – aka USS Constitution. This really is another can't miss site in Boston.

Legal Seafood – Best seafood hand's down.

Union Oyster House – Best clam chowdah! Adjacent to Faneuil Hall on the Freedom Trail and in an historic building after all it is Boston's oldest restaurant. Union Oyster House is a National Historic Landmark.

Faneuil Hall – Also a National Historic Park but is now also a market place where people from all over the world visit.

Duck Boat Tours – Yes, play tourist and have fun and they will guide you to all the best sites in Boston. If you are new to Boston this is probably the best way to tour the city's sites. Your “DUCK” is a W.W.II style amphibious landing vehicle, which tours you around Boston with great narrators the whole way.

Link to Duck Boat Tours - <https://www.bostonducktours.com/the-tour/>

Boston Museum of Science and Planetarium – I think the name says it all!

Boston's Mission Church is Boston's Basilica – This Basilica is a Roman Catholic Basilica in Boston's Roxbury neighborhood that is rich in history. Ted Kennedy and many other famous Boston politicians had their funeral services here. No matter what religion you are it is worth the visit to tour the church and visit it's history, dating back to 1869. Try sitting in the pews and you will no doubt know it was meant for people of must smaller stature than we are today.

The Mission Church was constructed in Romanesque style, of Roxbury puddingstone.